Dear Albright Employees and Residents:

By now you have received multiple communications about coronavirus (COVID-19) from Albright and other organizations. Whether you read newspapers, listen to the news, or talk to your friends and neighbors, we realize this can cause anxiety, frustration, and even fear.

My hope at this moment is to assure you that the Albright team and Asbury team have redoubled our efforts to keep you safe. We are continually setting the standard that others are trying to follow. We will not stop providing you with the information and tools to make our journey through this situation successful.

Every community within the Asbury system, including Albright Care Services, has been receiving guidance and support from global, national, and local health authorities. We are proud and humbled by the team of clinicians and administrators that are part of this system. They have qualifications and experience that would allow them to work at the best health care institutions in the country. I am grateful that we have chosen Asbury as a partner.

Please read the communications carefully and heed the advice, guidance, and direction. Some of it will disrupt your daily activities, and for that, I’m sorry, but we have so much to protect, and there is nothing more important to us than each of you.

We are relentless in our efforts to prevent infection. However, if the spread of the disease touches anyone in our Asbury/Albright family, rest assured that we will take every known precaution to prevent further spreading. We will keep sharing information on our community website homepages, and on our social media channels, with a link to the Asbury Communications Hub on Asbury.org. If you have any questions, please contact the Executive Director at your community.

Thank you for choosing to live or work at Albright Care Services.

Sincerely,

Shaun Smith
President/CEO
